P

ORTFOLIO

My experience includes working with from the level of investment opportunities to back-office solutions, as well as on the business management side.

The geography of doing business, investments and business interests is extensive. It covers not only Latvia but also the countries of the Baltic region, as well as the countries of the European Union, including the United Kingdom and the Benelux countries.

I am a strong executive and experienced consultant with a demonstrated successful project completion and startup development history.

I have built up a diverse portfolio of business interests worldwide in diversified consulting, financial markets (market segmentation), investment, banking, fintech, e-commerce, blockchain infrastructure, defi innovation, IT technologies, energy, and the modern investment migration industry, and development sports markets.

I have established and run a sought-after, successful private practice for high-net-worth clients and large companies as an independent expert adviser in the areas of investment strategies, finance and funding.

I am also an influential expert ("crypto-optimist") in the modern industry of the cryptocurrency market and blockchain infrastructure; besides, I am a sought-after lecturer who consults international organisations and companies due to its pioneering and forward-looking role in creating one of the leading ideas of modern theory and practice of the cryptocurrency market, a blockchain infrastructure and defi innovation.

My professional interests include business development, investments, management, strategy & operations, capital management, M&A transactions, venture financing, banking, and startup development in innovative technologies and crypto infrastructure.

As an entrepreneur and angel investor ("venture capitalist"), I have experience implementing, creating and building companies, teams, and ideas based on advanced solutions in management consulting, business development, and technology and founded a widespread successful private practice for high-net-worth clients and large companies as an independent advisor in investment strategy and finance. I'm dedicated my career to coordinating and managing the business communications ecosystem globally. What matters to me most is creating the platform and community for team members to feel empowered. When people feel empowered, they can achieve their potential and work as efficiently as possible.

It is my personal opinion that we cannot claim to care about social responsibility without putting this into practice in our daily lives. Indeed, I am always conscious of the ethics and integrity of my business practices. We must treat others the way we wish to be treated ourselves. And this notion must sometimes extend to helping others when they require our help.

I'm a Maecenas & philanthropist; my social responsibility is expressed in the ethics and conscientiousness of business reputation and a long tradition of discreet and generous charity. I'm a member of the boards of trustees of family foundations, helping children (low-income families) and sports veterans.
